publisher's description this book presents new perspectives on the vietnam war its global repercussions and the role of this war in modern history the volume reveals america's war as an international event that reverberated all over the world in domestic settings of numerous nation states combatants and non combatants alike as well as in transnational relations and alliance systems the volume thereby covers a wide geographical range from berkeley and berlin to cambodia and canberra the essays address political military and diplomatic issues no less than cultural and intellectual consequences of vietnam the authors also set the vietnam war in comparison to other major conflicts in world history they cover over three centuries and develop general insights into the tragedies and trajectories of military conflicts as phenomena of modern societies in general for the first time america's war is thus depicted as a truly global event whose origins and characteristics deserve an interdisciplinary treatment this accessible and stimulating account of world history since 1945 provides a framework for making sense of the political and social developments of this period the underlying theme of the book is the tension between the world conceived as a unity and the world conceived as a diversity from this perspective the author discusses the impulse towards globalization in the aftermath of the second world war the divisions inherent in the cold war and the shifting allegiances and conflicts in the decades which followed he ends with an assessment of our position with regard to world unity and disunity as the millennium approaches conventional accounts of world history tend to focus on the rise of western civilisation and concentrate on the story of ancient greece the roman empire and the expansion of europe the histories of the great civilisations of china india and japan and therefore the experience of the majority of the world's people have been relegated to a minor place world history adopts a radically different approach starting from the assumption that the human story has to be seen in the round it examines the evolution of humans their lives as hunters and gatherers and their eventual adoption of agriculture before looking at the emergence of civilisation across the globe in mesopotamia egypt china the indus valley mesoamerica and peru it goes on to tell the story of the earliest empires emphasising not just their differences but also their similarities it explains how contacts were established between them and how technologies ideas and the world's great religions travelled from one to another it describes the great empires of islam of china and of the mongols only towards the end of the story does europe come slowly to dominate the world against the background of technical innovations and social and economic change examines how the united nations has developed as an international arena for diplomacy based on insights into the structure of postwar international politics revealed by the collapse of the soviet union this study provides a fresh assessment of the entire course of the cold war drawing on newly released material and scholarly research from both the west and former communist states it argues that the cold war can only be understood by exploring the interplay between ideology domestic politics and military security not only in the u s and the soviet union but in other states and movements with a capacity for significant military and political action this major new global history of the twentieth century is written by four prominent international historians for first year undergraduate level and upward using their thematic and regional expertise the authors have produced an authoritative yet accessible account of the history of international relations in the last century covering events in europe asia the middle east africa and the americas they focus on the history of relations between states and on the broad ideological economic and cultural forces that have influenced the evolution of international politics over the past one hundred years among the areas this book covers are the decline of european hegemony over the international order the diffusion of power to the two superpowers the rise of newly independent states in asia and africa the course and consequences of the three major global conflicts of the twentieth century the great war the second world war and the cold war this is an absolutely essential book in the study of twentieth century history students will find themselves lacking without it
