during the season of ramadan when the first revelation of the quran is commemorated more than a million visitors journey to mecca s great mosque despite islam s position as a powerful religion boasting one quarter of the world s population as its followers many aspects of muslim thought and belief remain an enigma to non muslims the cities of mecca and medina are restricted to muslims and photographing the sites requires special and rarely given permission from the saudi arabian authorities this book is an unprecedented exploration of islam s most holy cities and the great pilgrimage mostly presented in full colour never before seen photographs the encyclopaedia of islam second edition sets out the present state of our knowledge of the islamic world it is a unique and invaluable reference tool an essential key to understanding the world of islam and the authoritative source not only for the religion but also for the believers and the countries in which they live this book provides the first in depth look at muslim life and institutions forming in north america it considers the range of islamic life in north america with its different racial ethnic and cultural identities customs and religious orientations issues of acculturation ethnicity orthodoxy and the changing roles of women are brought into focus the authors provide insight into the lives of recent immigrants who are asking what is islamically appropriate in a non muslim environment contrasts are drawn between sunni and shi i groups and attention is given to the activities of some sufi organizations the growing islamic community among african american muslims is examined including the followers of warith deen muhammed and the sectarians identified with black power such as the nation of islam darul islam and the five percenters the authors document the challenges and issues that american muslims face such as prejudice and racism pressure from overseas muslims dress and education the influence of islamic revivalism on the development of the community in this country and the maintenance of muslim identity amidst the pressure for assimilation mecca is the heart of islam it is the birthplace of muhammad the direction towards which muslims turn when they pray and the site of pilgrimage which annually draws some three million muslims from all corners of the world yet mecca s importance goes beyond religion what happens in mecca and how muslims think about the political and cultural history of mecca has had and continues to have a profound influence on world events to this day in this captivating book ziauddin sardar unravels the significance of mecca tracing its history from its origins as a barren valley in the desert to its evolution as a trading town and sudden emergence as the religious centre of a world empire sardar examines the religious struggles and rebellions in mecca that have powerfully shaped muslim culture interweaving stories of his own pilgrimages to mecca with those of others sardar offers a unique insight into not just the spiritual aspects of mecca the passion ecstasy and longing it evokes but also the conflict between heritage and modernity that has characterised its history he unpeels the physical social and cultural dimensions that have helped transform the city and also through accounts of such orientalist travellers as richard burton and charles doughty the strange fascination that mecca has long inspired in the western imagination and ultimately he explores what this tension could mean for mecca's future an illuminative lyrical and witty blend of history reportage and memoir this outstanding book reflects all that is profound enlightening and curious about one of the most important religious sites in the world the contributors to this new volume explore the wide gamut of characteristic features determining the rise of the city as a central living space since the high middle ages and extend the investigation up to the eighteenth century historians literature reading the islamic city offers insights into the implications the practices of the maliki school of islamic law have for the inhabitants of the islamic city the madinah the problematic term madinah fundamentally indicates a phenomenon of building dwelling and urban settlement patterns that evolved after the 7th century ce in the maghrib north africa and al andalusia spain madinah involves multiple contexts that have socio religious functions and symbolic connotations related to the faith and practice of islam and can be viewed in terms of a number of critiques such as everyday lives boundaries utopias and dystopias the book considers foucault's power knowledge matrix as it applies to an erudite cadre of scholars and legal judgments in the realm of architecture and urbanism it acknowledges the specificity of power knowledge insofar as it provides a dominant framework to tackle property rights custom noise privacy and a host of other subjects scholars of urban studies religion history and geography will greatly benefit from this vivid analysis of the relevance of the juridico discursive practice of maliki law in a set of productive or formative discourses in the islamic city after explaining the historical background the book focuses on pre islamic cities from phoenician greek to roman times a general view on early islamic cities in north africa and the near east introduces into the specific problems of early islamic cities in libya according to sources from written documents and archaeological evidences and preserved architectural buildings in the modern towns special investigation concentrates on regional cities as the old city of tripoli ajdabiya sultan and zuila the general analysis presents new information on the site and idea of planning the architectural features the decoration material and techniques and on the special problem of orientation of the mosques thus the book aims to fill a gap between maghreb and the near east networks labour and migration among indian muslim artisans provides an ethnography of life work and migration in a north indian muslim dominated woodworking industry it traces artisanal connections within the local context during migration within india and to the gulf examining how woodworkers utilise local and transnational networks based on identity religiosity and affective circulations to access resources support and forms of mutuality however the book also illustrates how liberalisation intensifying forms of marginalisation and incorporation into global production networks have led to spatial pressures fragmentation of artisanal labour and forms of enclavement that persist despite geographical mobility and connectedness by working across the dialectic of marginality and connectedness thomas chambers thinks through these complexities and dualities by providing an ethnographic account that shares everyday life with artisans and others in the industry descriptive detail is intersected with spatial scales of local national and international with the demands of supply chains and labour markets within india and abroad with structural conditions and with forms of change and continuity empirically then the book provides a detailed account of a specific locale but also contributes to broader theoretical debates centring on theorisations of margins borders connections networks embeddedness neoliberalism subjectivities and economic or social flux
