a cultural history of plants in the modern era covers the period from 1920 to today a time when population growth industrialization global trade and consumerism have fundamentally reshaped our relationship with plants advances in agriculture science and technology have revolutionised the ways we feed ourselves whilst urbanization and industrial processing have reduced our direct connection with living plants at the same time our understanding of both ecology and conservation have greatly increased and our appreciation of the meanings and aesthetics of plants continue to suffuse art and everyday culture the modern era has witnessed a revolution in both the valuation and the destruction of the natural world more than ever before we understand that the vitality of our relationship with plants will shape our future the 6 volume set of the cultural history of plants presents the first comprehensive history of the uses and meanings of plants from prehistory to today the themes covered in each volume are plants as staple foods plants as luxury foods trade and exploration plant technology and science plants and medicine plants in culture plants as natural ornaments the representation of plants stephen forbes is an independent scholar and writer based in australia volume 6 in the cultural history of plants set general editors annette giesecke university of delaware usa and david mabberley university of oxford uk the study of pre modern anthropology requires the close examination of the relationship between nature and human society which has been both precarious and threatening as well as productive soothing inviting and pleasurable much depends on the specific circumstances as the works by philosophers theologians poets artists and medical practitioners have regularly demonstrated it would not be good enough as previous scholarship has commonly done to examine simply what the various writers or artists had to say about nature while modern scientists consider just the hard core data of the objective world cultural historians and literary scholars endeavor to comprehend the deeper meaning of the concept of nature presented by countless writers and artists only when we have a good grasp of the interactions between people and their natural environment are we in a position to identify and interpret mental structures social and economic relationships medical and scientific concepts of human health and the messages about all existence as depicted in major art works in light of the current conditions threatening to bring upon us a global crisis it matters centrally to take into consideration pre modern discourses on nature and its enormous powers to understand the topoi and tropes determining the concepts through which we perceive nature nature thus proves to be a force far beyond all human comprehensibility being both material and spiritual depending on our critical approaches the modern history of iraq is punctuated by a series of successive and radical ruptures coups d etat changes of regime military adventures and foreign invasions whose chronological markers are relatively easy to identify although researchers cannot ignore these ruptures they should also be encouraged to establish links between the moments when the breaks occur and the longue dur e in order to gain a better understanding of the period combining a variety of different disciplinary and methodological perspectives this collection of essays seeks to establish some new markers which will open fresh perspectives on the history of iraq in the twentieth and twenty first centuries and suggest a narrative that fits into new paradigms the book covers the various different periods of the
