the army must balance cost and training effectiveness in acquiring a kiowa warrior crew trainer kwct this entails determining the least fidelity required for specific training objectives employing the least costly technology a fidelity analysis was conducted which involved a analysis of training requirements b review of the literature and c empirical assessment of a benchmark kwct subject matter experts smes identified 13 tasks for which training in the aircraft alone was inadequate it was concluded that the kwct should train these tasks under the full range of visibility conditions and when affected by obscurants the literature revealed virtually no data on display resolution required to train tasks other than target detection and identification it also implied that a visual display system with adequate field of view fov and resolution for target detection and identification at realistic standoff ranges would be prohibitively expensive for the benchmark kwct assessment small sample size made performance evaluation difficult gunnery was more affected by degraded depth cues when resolution was low 480 lines than when high 768 lines low resolution was perceived as inadequate for all tasks and high resolution as marginally adequate for gunnery fov was perceived as less critical to gunnery than to general flying if we do not win the battle of training we shall win no other battle in the air in 1943 the royal air force recognised that training a vast amount of aircrew for a high attrition war was essential to an allied victory and that the key to winning the battle of training was the empire air training scheme eats 37 576 australian aircrew graduated from the eats over 300 were killed whilst training for war and 9874 aircrew were killed or listed as missing while on active duty those who fought under this scheme during world war ii amounted to just 6 7 per cent of australian service personnel serving overseas yet the aircrew losses amounted to almost 25 per cent of all the australian fatalities during the war this made serving in eats among the most hazardous duties of the war the empire has an answer was researched using more than 35 000 articles from 150 metropolitan regional and district newspapers and what materialised was a story of one of if not the greatest training programs the world has seen follow the journey from the conception and implementation of the scheme through recruitment and basic training flight training and then into combat the individual accounts woven into the narrative provide a first hand experience of the triumphs and trials of typical airmen and airwomen who performed extraordinary feats in a time of great need the significant achievements and success of the empire air training scheme has for the most part been overlooked in our history until now in 1988 scott cook was a boarding school pe teacher responsible for the proper inflation of dodge balls a year later he was operating an underground strategic missile control center with 10 intercontinental nuclear weapons capable of obliterating an entire country this unexpected journey took him from the serene hills of virginia through months of intensive training on the california coast to the front lines of the cold war beneath the frozen plains of north dakota his frank entertaining memoir describes the insular and secretive military subculture of men and women who lived with the sobering burden of potentially unleashing global devastation and how an easy going gym coach ended up in an organization whose unofficial motto was to err is human to forgive is not strategic air command policy
