heritage is a social construction rooted in modern and contemporary societies it is commonly a positive assessment of many elements of the physical and human environment e g ecosystems and landscapes monuments customs gender norms religious practices gastronomy and livelihoods heritage and tourism are strongly related to each other in that heritage gives rise to tourist attractions and activities and tourism enhances the designation of heritage sites a post humanist perspective the moral valuation of equality between humans and other animals demands that both are sentient beings and self aware of their pain and pleasure thus the involvement of animals as heritage elements by themselves or as an element of tourist consumption in heritage sites implies their commodification and lack of agency as such these practices are usually unethical since they threaten the animals primary interests not to suffer not to feel pain and to be able to live their freedom this book contains chapters that reveal both the unethical interactions between humans and animals within heritage tourism and those that show experiences in which efforts are made to minimize damage within the commercialization of animals involved as heritage themselves are zoos an anachronism in the 21st century when we can watch animals in their natural habitat close up from our couches without worrying about cruelty should they go the way of other bygone era spectacles and attractions that we now regard as barbaric there are vocal campaigners and activists who believe so heather browning and walter veit disagree but they acknowledge there is a case to be answered in what are zoos for they test the common justifications for zoos entertainment education research conservation against the evidence and suggest what the best zoos of the future should look like to ensure that they are primarily for animals and not just for people in kindred spirits anne benvenuti visits with individuals and groups working in animal conservation rescue and sanctuary programs around the world we meet not only cats and dogs but also ravens elephants cheetahs whales farm and circus animals monkeys even bees a psychologist and storyteller benvenuti focuses on moments of transformative contact between humans and other animals portraying vividly the resulting ripples that change the lives of both animals and humans noting that we are all biologically members of one animal family she expertly weaves emergent understandings of animal and human neurobiology showing that the ways in which other animals feel and think are actually similar to humans love grief fear rage sadness curiosity play these are shared by us all a key insight of affective neuroscience that informs benvenuti s perceptions of human animal relationships she effortlessly drops clues to understanding human motivation and behavior into her narratives and points to ways in which we all other animals and humans alike must come up with creative responses to problems such as climate change as we travel with her to both backyard and far flung locations we experience again and again the surprising fact that other animals reach back to us with curiosity interest even care benvenuti writes for the animal loving public but also for anyone who loves a good story or is interested in ecology animal welfare psychology or philosophy zoos have found themselves continually under fire in recent decades animal rights activists initiated the attacks at the same time regulatory agencies anti tax advocates and an assortment of litigators have also targeted zoos in an effort to defend themselves in this hostile landscape zoos and aquariums joined forces under the leadership of the american association of zoological parks and aquariums now called the aza they learned to use the political system to their own advantage while at the same time crafting a more progressive public mission in the politics of zoos jesse donahue and erik trump present a political biography of the aza to show how the zoo community has emerged as a political player rather than recount the history of a faceless institution the authors focus on the cohort of directors who navigated the political turbulence of the 1960s and 1970s and set the agenda for subsequent decades ironically at a time when activists began to charge that zoos and aquariums did not know how to care for animals and did not care for the well being of endangered species the opposite was true these institutions were increasingly attracting well educated professionals who indeed cared a great deal amidst controversies over ownership and funding capture and disposal and the health and well being of animals on display aza leaders acted not merely to protect their own interests in the political arena but to ensure the welfare of captive animals and to assist with the conservation of wild species donahue and trump s original study of the politics of american zoos and aquariums from the 1960s to the present draws upon interviews archival sources congressional records court cases regulatory hearings media accounts and the authors ongoing field research it will appeal to zoo professionals political scientists historians and those concerned with animal welfare
