from civil rights to free love jfk to lsd woodstock to the moonwalk the sixties was a time of change political unrest and radical experiments in the arts sexuality and personal identity in this anthology of more than one hundred selections of essays poetry and fiction by some of america's most gifted writers ann charters sketches the unfolding of this most turbulent decade the portable sixties reader is organized into thematic chapters from the civil rights movement to the anti vietnam movement the free speech movement the counterculture movement drugs and the movement into inner space the beats and other fringe literary movements the black arts movement the women s movement and the environmental movement the concluding chapter elegies for the sixties offers tributes to ten figures whose lives and deaths captured the spirit of the decade contributors include edward abbey sherman alexie james baldwin richard brautigan lenny bruce charles bukowski william burroughs jim carroll rachel carson carlos castenada bob dylan betty friedan nikki giovanni michael herr abbie hoffman robert hunter ken kesey martin luther king jr timothy leary denise levertov norman mailer malcolm x country joe mcdonald kate millet tim o brien sylvia plath susan sontag gloria steinem hunter s thompson calvin trillin alice walker eudora welty and more for more than seventy years penguin has been the leading publisher of classic literature in the english speaking world with more than 1 700 titles penguin classics represents a global bookshelf of the best works throughout history and across genres and disciplines readers trust the series to provide authoritative texts enhanced by introductions and notes by distinguished scholars and contemporary authors as well as up to date translations by award winning translators this collection brings together new and original critical essays by eleven established european american studies scholars to explore the 1960s from a transatlantic perspective intended for an academic audience interested in globalized american studies it examines topics ranging from the impact of the american civil rights movement in germany france and wales through the transatlantic dimensions of feminism and the counterculture movement it explores for example the vicissitudes of europe s status in us foreign relations european documentaries about the vietnam war transatlantic trends in literature and culture and the significance of collective and cultural memory of the era this book charts the changing complexion of american culture in one of the most culturally vibrant of twentieth century decades it provides a vivid account of the major cultural forms of 1960s america music and performance film and television fiction and poetry art and photography as well as influential texts trends and figures of the decade from norman mailer to susan sontag from muhammad ali s anti war protests to tom lehrer s stand up comedy from bob dylan to rachel carson and from pop art to photojournalism a chapter on new social movements demonstrates that a current of conservatism runs through even the most revolutionary movements of the 1960s and the book as a whole looks to the west and especially to the south in the making of the sixties as myth and as history claims of ideology's end are on the one hand performative denials of ideology's inability to end while on the other hand paradoxically they also reiterate an idea that ending is simply what all ideologies eventually do situating her work around the intersecting publications of Daniel Bell's The End of Ideology 1960 and J.D. Salinger's Franny and Zooey 1961 Laurie R. King argues that American novels express this paradox through nuanced applications of non-realist strategies distorting realism in manners similar to ideology's distortions of reality history and belief reflecting the astonishing cultural variety of this period The American Novel After Ideology 1961-2000 examines Franny and Zooey Carlene Hatcher's Polite Society: The Flagellants 1967 Leslie Marmon Silko's Almanac of the Dead 1991 and Philip Roth's The Human Stain 2001 alongside the various discussions around ideology with which they intersect each novel's plotless narratives dissolving subjectivities and cultural codes organize the texts' peculiar relations to the post-ideological age suggesting an aesthetic return of the repressed

In the 1960s and 1970s a popular diagnosis for America's problems was that society was becoming a madhouse in this intellectual and cultural history Michael E. Staub examines a time when many believed insanity was a sane reaction to obscene social conditions psychiatrists were agents of repression asylums were gulags for society's undesirables and mental illness was a concept with no medical basis Madness Is Civilization explores the general consensus that societal ills from dysfunctional marriage and family dynamics to the Vietnam War racism and sexism were at the root of mental illness Staub chronicles the surge in influence of socially attuned psychodynamic theories along with the rise of radical therapy and psychiatric survivors' movements he shows how the theories of antipsychiatry held unprecedented sway over an enormous range of medical social and political debates until a bruising backlash against these theories part of the reaction to the perceived excesses and self-absorptions of the 1960s effectively distorted them into caricatures throughout Staub reveals that at stake in these debates of psychiatry and politics was nothing less than how to think about the institution of the family the nature of the self and the prospects for and limits of social change the first study to describe how social diagnostic thinking emerged Madness Is Civilization casts new light on the politics of the postwar era
