best known today as the illustrator of Lewis Carroll's Alice books John Tenniel was one of the Victorian era's chief political cartoonists. This extensively illustrated book is the first to draw almost exclusively on primary sources in family collections, public archives and other depositories. Frankie Morris examines Tenniel's life and work, producing a book that is not only a definitive resource for scholars and collectors but one that can be easily enjoyed by everyone interested in Victorian life and art. Social history, journalism and political cartoon and illustrated books from his sunny childhood and early enthusiasm for sports, theatre and medievalism to his flirtation with high art and fifty-year relationship with the London journal Punch. Tenniel is shown to have been the sociable and urbane humourist revealed in his drawings. There follow three parts on Tenniel's work in which Morris examines Tenniel's methods and his earlier book illustrations, the Alice pictures and the Punch cartoons. She addresses such little understood subjects as Tenniel's drawings on wood, his relationship with Lewis Carroll and his controversial Irish cartoons and examines the salient characteristics of his approximately 4,500 drawings for books and journals. The definitive study of both the man and the work, Artist of Wonderland gives an unprecedented view of the cartoonist who mythologised the world for generations of Britons.

Espying Heaven presents the first full-scale and full-colour survey of the achievement of Charles Eamer Kempe (1837–1907), the outstanding stained glass designer of his era and his studio from the start. Kempe gathered around him a close-knit team of artists and craftsmen who together developed his vision of a distinctive aesthetic setting for worship based on late medieval art, especially the stained glass of northern Europe. Espying Heaven illustrates the evolution of the Kempe style and allows readers to judge for themselves the extent to which the later firm of C. E. Kempe & Co. (1907–1934), set up by Kempe himself, succeeded in working within the tradition established by his founding artists. This book is meant to be a companion to Adrian Barlow's biographical study Kempe: The Life, Art and Legacy of Charles Eamer Kempe (2018). In its own right, Espying Heaven both documents and celebrates a style of church art and decoration that has had a defining influence upon the Anglican church.

worldwide it highlights key features of kempe glass exploring questions of representation symbolism and technique and suggesting new ways of reading a kempe window this book engages with the long overlooked bicycle as a crucial literary and cultural object in a selection of turn of the century fiction travel writing and non fiction cycling is revealed to be a favoured literary device allowing writers to structure their narratives in new ways or depict a fresh sensory and aesthetic experience moreover this study reveals that from its earliest days the bicycle played a compelling counter cultural role proposing an alternative modernity that directly challenged bourgeois patriarchal capitalist society from blurring gender and class divisions to offering a more empowering interaction with the machine and allowing an embodied and social experience of space the bicycle pointed a human powered route to progress amidst increasingly mechanised visions of the future in the victorian and edwardian eras british explorers sought to become respected geographers and popular public figures downplaying or reframing their reliance on others for survival far from being solitary heroes these explorers were in reality dependent on the bodies senses curiosity and labor of subaltern people and animals in on the backs of others edward armston sheret offers new perspectives on british exploration in this era by focusing on the contributions of the people and animals ordinarily written out of the mainstream histories who made these journeys possible he explores several well known case studies of enduring popular and academic interest such as richard francis burton and john hanning speke s Nile expeditions 1856 59 and 1860 63 isabella bird s travels in north america persia and east asia 1872 c 1900 and captain robert falcon scott s two antarctic expeditions 1901 4 and 1911 13 armston sheret argues that numerous previously ignored stories show the work and agency of subaltern groups in rethinking the history of exploration on the backs of others offers the first book length study of the relationship between exploration and empire and their legacies within academic geography
