make learning easy fun with our printable alphabet chart the alphabet chart can be an important part of teaching your child how to recognize the individual letters and sounds of the alphabet this is part of the process of learning to read our alphabet chart consists of the 26 letters of the alphabet and a picture corresponding to the phonic sound of each letter the chart is a great tool to teach the alphabet to your child how it worksa parent will point and recite the letter and picture name for example a apple b ball c cat it is important that you go through the alphabet chart at the right speed too slow and your child will get bored provide your child with the opportunity to join the game by reciting the name of pictures or letters as they begin to recognize them depending on the ability of your child you can simplify or add complexity to the game by reciting the pictures only or letters only or you can add a variation by introducing the phonics sound for each letter alphabet activitiesthere are a range of activities that parents can use to teach letters to children here are some basics you can conduct with an alphabet chart play a game where you give your child a word and they find the letter that word starts with on the alphabet chart as you recite the word the word have your child come up with other words that start with that letter sound you can use the letter only version of the alphabet chart to help your child practice writing letters learning to read and to spell are two of the most important cultural skills that must be acquired by children and for that matter anyone learning a second language we are not born with an innate ability to read a reading system of mental representations that enables us to read must be formed in the brain learning to read in alphabetic orthographies is the acquisition of such a system which links mental representations of visual symbols letters in print words with pre existing phonological sound and semantic comprehension cognitive systems for language although spelling draws on the same representational knowledge base and is usually correlated with reading the acquisition processes involved are not quite the same spelling requires the sequential production of letters in words and at beginning levels there may not be a full degree of integration of phonology with its representation by the orthography reading on the other hand requires only the recognition of a word for pronunciation hence spelling is more difficult than reading and learning to spell may necessitate more complete representations or more conscious access to them the learning processes that children use to acquire such cognitive systems in the brain and whether these same processes are universal across different languages and orthographies are central theoretical questions most children learn to read and spell their language at the same time thus the co ordination of these two facets of literacy acquisition needs explication as well as the effect of different teaching approaches on acquisition lack of progress in either reading and or spelling is also a major issue of concern for parents and teachers necessitating a cross disciplinary approach to the problem encompassing major efforts from researchers in neuroscience cognitive science experimental psychology and education the purpose of this research topic is to summarize and review what has been accomplished so far and to further explore these general issues contributions from different perspectives are welcomed and could include theoretical computational and empirical works that focus on the acquisition of literacy including cross orthographic research
