the key to a balanced and accurate understanding of the book of ecclesiastes lies in the inter dependent relationships between the prominent motifs within the book an analysis of the inter dependency of the prominent motifs within the book of qohelet explores this dynamic the final outcome of such an approach is a wisdom based paradigm for living under the sun a wise man s approach to living in a fallen world qohelet s conclusions are two fold and balanced first in light of the fact that life is fleeting death is inevitable and one s future lies outside of the realm of human control the wise will enjoy life as a gift from god recognizing that joy is ultimately a responsibility and a mandate placed upon them second in light of the fact that life is fleeting death is inevitable and god s enigmatic ways on earth are sure to be followed by an equitable future judgment the wise will fear god and keep his commandments therefore the wise man or woman will enjoy life but not enjoy sin living each day to its fullest but in sobriety knowing that for all our actions there is a coming judgment this is the wisdom of ecclesiastes the writing style of a number of authors writing in english was empirically investigated to detect stylistic patterns in relation to advancing age the aim was to identify the type of stylistic markers among lexical syntactical phonemic entropic character based and content ones most able to discriminate between early middle and late works of the selected authors and the best classification or prediction algorithm most suited for this task a pilot examination of personal letters and poetry by christina georgina rossetti and edgar allan poe suggested that authors and genres vary inconsistently examination of selected variables on shakespeare s plays which emphasised their predictive power led to four experiments on personal correspondence and poetry from edna st vincent millay and william butler yeats the methods used were stepwise multiple linear regression regression trees ordinal logistic regression and artificial neural networks prediction was found influenced by method authorship and genre whereas classification was found sensitive to all factors given the current experiments generalizable conclusions for the wider author population have been avoided over the last twenty years the humanities and social sciences have been preoccupied with the powers and limitations of language during these years literary theory has become peculiarly fascinated with what language cannot do with the impossibility of language meaning what the individual intends it to mean if indeed individuals can intend or mean but language does exist and does appear to be useful in communicating and most of the time those who use the same language feel they are successful in communicating with each other in interpretive acts rather than ask whether communication is possible professor harris explores the issues that arise from the question how does communication occur in this he draws on a variety of fields which have contributed to literary theory by the study of strategies for expressing and for interpreting intended meanings discourse analysis sociolinguistics philosophy of language and rhetorical theory for language to be understood there has to be a mutually understood context professor harris argues that there are seven dimensions of context in terms of which an author calculates readers responses having defined the goal of interpretation as the author s intended meaning criticism is then seen in terms of the question what does it mean that the author meant that meaning is the artist's monograph an endangered species or a timeless genre this critical history traces the formal and conceptual trajectories of art history's favorite form from Vasari onward and reconsiders the validity of the life and work model for the twenty-first century the narrative of the artist's life and work is one of the oldest models in the western literature of the visual arts in art as existence Gabriele Guercio investigates the metamorphosis of the artist's monograph tracing its formal and conceptual trajectories from Vasari's sixteenth-century lives of the painters, sculptors, and architects which provided the model and source for the genre through its apogee in the nineteenth century and decline in the twentieth he looks at the legacy of the life and work model and considers its prospects in an intellectual universe of deconstructionism, psychoanalysis, feminism, and postcolonialism since Vasari the monograph has been notable for its fluidity and variety it can be scrupulous and exact, probing and revelatory, poetic and imaginative or any combination of these in the nineteenth century the monograph combined art historical, biographical, and critical methods and even added elements of fiction Guercio explores some significant books that illustrate key phases in the model's evolution including works by Gustav Friedrich Waagen, A. C. Quatremère de Quincy, Johann David Passavant, Bernard Berenson, and others the hidden project of the artist's monograph Guercio claims comes from a utopian impulse by commuting biography into art and art into biography the life and work model equates art and existence construing otherwise distinct works of an artist as chapters of a life story Guercio calls for a contemporary reconsideration of the life and work model arguing that the ultimate legacy of the artist's monograph does not lie in its established modes of writing but in its greater project and in the intimate portrait that we gain of the nature of creativity
