this book frames mannerism as an inescapable stage in the creative process the mannerist phase is usually an adolescent stage of language preceding the consolidation of thought it is that period as fertile as it is anguished in which each author engages in a dialogue with his or her past reinterpreting or completely transforming it the mannerist phase is that period when architects design spaces not yet knowing what it means to design places the mannerist condition can be short lived or protracted until it becomes systemic in all cases it is a period of research experienced by architects who are also intellectuals that is architects who operate between the practice of making and the elaboration of a personal design philosophy within a perspective in which history theory and criticism are intertwined in this sense the mannerist condition can also be defined as the style of the academic thought the book explores the work of many authors analyzing their relationship to history and how they managed to emerge from its shadow of interest to academics scholars and students exploring the theory of architecture this book offers an unconventional transtemporal reading of mannerism where facts events and images belonging to different times and spaces are juxtaposed to generate a series of temporal paradoxes
