aristotle noted that equality is the plea not of those who are satisfied but of those who seek change and the word has long been invoked in the name of social reform it retains its force because arguments for equality put arguments for inequality on the defensive but why is equality laudatory and inequality pejorative in this first book length analysis of the rhetorical force of equality arguments peter westen argues that they derive their persuasiveness largely from the kind of word that equality is rather than from the values it incorporates by focusing on ordinary language and using commonplace examples from law and morals westen argues that equality is a single concept that lends itself to a multiplicity of conceptions by virtue of its capacity to incorporate diverse standards of comparison by reference equality arguments draw rhetorical force in part from their tendency to mask the standards of comparison on which they are based and in so doing to confound fact with value premises with conclusions and uncontested with contested norms originally published in 1990 the princeton legacy library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of princeton university press these editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions the goal of the princeton legacy library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by princeton university press since its founding in 1905 intended for philosophers with a general interest in moral philosophy or ethics and more specifically axiological animal and medical ethics examines the question of whether there is an inherent value in being human critiques arguments both for and against what the author terms the standard attitude that there is such value applies these ideas to consideration of the taking of human life in such cases as abortion and euthanasia among others annotation copyrighted by book news inc portland or increasingly in the public discourse there are references to the knowledge economy knowledge society knowledge workers and knowledge organisations the argument is that knowledge is becoming the main economic resource replacing the natural resources that drove the industrial revolution the new knowledge economy is driven by knowledge development innovation and highly skilled employees increasing investment in higher education and in universities is in line with this strategy and understanding in an earlier book creating collaborative advantage edited with richard ennals professor hans christian garmann johnsen argued that it is knowledge that links social and economic processes he believes that what is missing in the current discussion on innovation is a conceptualisation of exactly what knowledge is in the new natural resource he digs deeper into what it is and how it develops and subsequently leads to widespread change the author argues that knowledge is inherently a social phenomenon that is why social processes are closely linked to economic development and why this relationship becomes even more apparent in the new knowledge economy knowledge is not an objective entity established once and for all knowledge development is interrelated with values norms perceptions and interpretations we need to know what the mechanisms are by which knowledge becomes legitimate true and relevant
