an extraordinary storyteller bernardine evaristo people say that on the first night francis sancher spent in rivière au sel the wind in its temper screamed down from the mountains francis sancher always said he would come to an unnatural end so when this handsome newcomer to the guadeloupean village of rivière au sel is found dead face down in the mud no one is particularly surprised loved by some especially women and reviled by others francis was an enigmatic figure where did he come from what caused his strange nocturnal wanderings what devils haunted him as the villagers come to pay their respects they each reveal another piece of the mystery behind his life and death and their own buried secrets and stories come to light the grand queen the empress of caribbean literature fiammetta rocco guardian

it is impossible to read her novels and not come away from them with both a sadder and more exhilarating understanding of the human heart the new york times book review rapidly shifting between guadeloupe and harlem moving from haiti s desperate slums to the exclusive enclaves of the parisian upper class this deeply personal tale traces one guadeloupe family s rise from poverty to riches through several generations possessing one of the most vital voices in international letters maryse condé added to an already acclaimed career the new academy prize in literature in 2018 the twelfth novel by this celebrated author revolves around an enigmatic crime and the young man at its center dieudonné sabrina a gardener aged twenty two and black is accused of murdering his employer and lover loraine a wealthy white woman descended from plantation owners his only refuge is a sailboat la belle créole a relic of times gone by condé follows dieudonné s desperate wanderings through the city of port mahault the night of his acquittal the narrative unfolding through a series of multivoiced flashbacks set against a forbidding backdrop of social disintegration and tumultuous labor strikes in turn of the twenty first century guadeloupe twenty four hours later dieudonné s fate becomes suggestively intertwined with that of the french island itself though the future of both remains uncertain in the end echoes of faulkner and lawrence and even shakespeare s othello resonate in this tale yet the drama s uniquely modern dynamics set it apart from any model in its exploration of love and hate politics and stereotype and the attempt to find connections with others across barriers through her vividly and intimately drawn characters condé paints a rich portrait of a contemporary society grappling with the heritage of slavery racism and colonization odious caribbean women and the palpable aesthetics of transgression examines the methods through which the works of french caribbean women resist hedonistic conceptions of pleasure art for art s sake aestheticism and commodification through representations of uglified spaces transgressive deglamorified women s bodies in pain and explicit corporeal and sexual behaviors gladys m francis offers an original approach through her reading together of the literary visual and performing arts as well as traditional caribbean dance music and oral practices to arrive at a transregional trans caribbean and transatlantic trans genre with regard to forms of text and transdisciplinary conversation in francophone studies postcolonial studies and cultural studies this interweaving is illustrated through the artistic engagements of artists such as ina césaire maryse condé sylvaine dampierre fabienne kanor lénablou béatrice mélima gisèle pineau simone schwarz bart and miriam warner vieyra how can we investigate theoretically or critically the aesthetically unpleasing found in depictions of odious female protagonists or female performers what is the aesthetic value of transgressional women s bodies this book presents novel tools to understand how these women artists mark and re instate embodied trauma survival and resistance into history it posits that cultural performances can disrupt a culture as text ethnocentrism for these works provide the means to expose the tangible aesthetics through which the body becomes an archive that bears the psychological physical and structural suffering this project also demonstrates the ways through which the corporeal realm offered by these transgressive works through explicit female perspectives on sex love and gender challenges our moral sensibilities works to sabotage the voyeuristic gaze and stimulates a new methodology for reading the women's body it focuses on the complex layers of identity formation and bodily representations with respect to issues of sex consumerism commodification violence gender and women studies and ethics and moral issues in the first decades after the end of french rule francophone authors engaged in an exercise of rewriting narratives from the colonial literary canon in the author as cannibal felisa vergara reynolds presents these textual revisions as figurative acts of cannibalism and examines how these literary cannibalizations critique colonialism and its legacy in each author's homeland reynolds focuses on four representative texts une tempête 1969 by aimé césaire le temps de tamango 1981 by boubacar boris diop l amour la fantasia 1985 by assia djebar and la migration des coeurs 1995 by maryse condé though written independently in africa and the caribbean these texts all combine critical adaptation with creative destruction in an attempt to eradicate the social political cultural and linguistic remnants of colonization long after independence the author as cannibal situates these works within francophone studies showing that the extent of their postcolonial critique is better understood when they are considered collectively crucial to the book are two interviews with maryse condé which provide great insight on literary cannibalism by foregrounding thematic concerns and writing strategies in these texts reynolds shows how these rewritings are an underappreciated collective form of protest and resistance for francophone authors
