this dystopian science fiction classic details the hallucinatory hunt for a white haired girl through a frozen post apocalyptic landscape a haunting story of sexual assault and climate catastrophe decades ahead of its time the new yorker a strange and compelling classic of dystopian and climate fiction one that with foreboding and deep compassion maps the psyche and the terrain of dislocation jeff vandermeer anticipating climate fiction and the new weird literary genre while garnering fans from Doris Lessing and J.G. Ballard to China Miéville and Patti Smith since it was first published in 1967 this fantasia about predatory male sexual behavior during an apocalyptic climate catastrophe reads as though author Anna Kavan had seen the future ice is slowly covering the entire globe as the glacial tide creeps forward the fabric of society begins to break down through this chaotic landscape a nameless narrator hunts for the white haired girl he once loved or perhaps wishes to annihilate battling a powerful enemy known only as the Warden he travels through nightmarish and ever shifting scenes where the object of his obsession remains constantly just out of reach she is guarded by the Warden and by a cruel older woman who wishes her ill but each time the narrator seems poised to rescue her the encroaching ice wreaks violence on her fragile body or his own base nature sends him hurtling onward in his kaleidoscopic pursuit again and again the girl appears but inevitably she eludes him this dystopian classic the last book Anna Kavan published in her lifetime renders her apocalyptic vision of environmental devastation and possessive violence in unforgettable propulsive oneiric prose

In this haunting and surreal novel the narrator and a man known as the Warden search for an elusive girl in a frozen seemingly post nuclear apocalyptic landscape the country has been invaded and is being governed by a secret organization there is destruction everywhere great walls of ice overrun the world together with the narrator the reader is swept into a hallucinatory quest for this strange and fragile creature with albino hair acclaimed upon its 1967 publication as the best science fiction book of the year this extraordinary and innovative novel has subsequently been recognized as a major work of literature in its own right

Nature thou art my goddess Edmund's bold assertion in King Lear could easily inspire and at the same time function as a lamentation of the inadequate respect of nature in culture in this volume international experts provide multidisciplinary exploration of the insubordinate representations of nature in modern and contemporary literature and art the work foregrounds the need to reassess how nature is already and has been for a while striking back against human domination from the perspective of literary studies art history media studies ethics and philosophy and ethnology and anthropology avenging nature highlights the need of assessing insurgent discourses that converging with counter discourses of race gender or class realize the empowerment of nature from its subaltern position acknowledging the argument that cultural representations of nature establish a relationship of domination and exploitation of human discourse over nonhuman reality and that in consequence our regard for nature as humanist critics is instrumental and anthropocentric the present volume advocates for the view that the time has come to finally perceive nature's vengeance and to critically probe into nature's ongoing revenge against the exploitation of culture this book scrutinizes a range of relatively overlooked post wwii british women writers who sought to demonstrate that narrative prose fiction offered rich possibilities for aesthetic innovation what unites all the primary authors in this volume is a commitment to challenging the tenets of british mimetic realism as a literary and historical phenomenon this collection reassesses how british female novelists operated in relation to transnational vanguard networking clusters debates and tendencies both political and artistic the chapters collected in this volume enquire for example whether there is something fundamentally different or politically dissident about female experimental procedures and perspectives this book also investigates the processes of canon formation asking why in one way or another these authors have been sidelined or misconstrued by recent scholarship ultimately it seeks to refine a new research archive on mid century british fiction by female novelists at least as diverse as recent and longer established work in the domain of modernist studies
