in this fascinating study partha mitter traces the history of european reactions to indian art from the earliest encounters of explorers with the exotic east to the more sophisticated but still incomplete appreciations of the early twentieth century mitter's new preface reflects upon the profound changes in western interpretations of non western societies over the past fifteen years this book explores literary and scholarly representations of india from the 18th to the early 20th centuries in south asia and the west with idolatry as a point of entry it charts the intellectual horizon within which the colonial idea of india was framed tracing sources and genealogies which inform even contemporary descriptions of the subcontinent using idolatry as a concept metaphor the book traverses an ambitious path through the works of william jones james mill friedrich max müller john ruskin alice perrin e m forster rammohan roy and bankimchandra chatterjee it reveals how religion and paganism history and literature oriental thought and western metaphysics and social reform and education were unfolded and debated by them the author underlines how idolatry irrationality and social disorder came to be linked by discourses informed by enlightenment missionary rhetoric and colonial reason this book will appeal to scholars and researchers in history anthropology literature culture studies philosophy religion sociology and south asian studies as well as anyone interested in colonial studies and histories of the enlightenment is it merely an accident of english etymology that imagination is cognate with image despite the iconoclasm shared to a greater or lesser extent by all abrahamic faiths theism tends to assert a link between beauty goodness and truth all of which are viewed as divine attributes douglas hedley argues that religious ideas can be presented in a sensory form especially in aesthetic works drawing explicitly on a platonic metaphysics of the image as a bearer of transcendence the iconic imagination shows the singular capacity and power of images to represent the transcendent in the traditions of christianity judaism hinduism and islam in opposition to cold abstraction and narrow asceticism hedley shows that the image furnishes a vision of the eternal through the visible and temporal the life and times of the new testament s most mystifying and incendiary book few biblical books have been as revered and reviled as revelation many hail it as the pinnacle of prophetic vision the cornerstone of the biblical canon and for those with eyes to see the key to understanding the past present and future others denounce it as the work of a disturbed individual whose horrific dreams of inhumane violence should never have been allowed into the bible timothy beal provides a concise cultural history of revelation and the apocalyptic imaginations it has fueled taking readers from the book s composition amid the christian persecutions of first century rome to its enduring influence today in popular culture media and visual art beal explores the often wildly contradictory lives of this sometimes horrifying sometimes inspiring biblical vision he shows how such figures as augustine and hildegard of bingen made revelation central to their own mystical worldviews and how thanks to the vivid works of art it inspired the book remained popular even as it was denounced by later church leaders such as martin luther attributed to a mysterious prophet identified only as john revelation speaks with a voice unlike any other in the bible beal demonstrates how the book is a multimedia constellation of stories and images that mutate and evolve as they take hold in new contexts and how revelation is reinvented in the hearts and minds of each new generation this succinct book traces how revelation continues to inspire new diagrams of history new fantasies of rapture and new nightmares of being left behind people all over the world make art and take pleasure in it and they have done so for millennia but acknowledging that art is a universal part of human experience leads us to some big questions why does it exist why do we enjoy it and how do the world's different art traditions relate to art and to each other art without borders is an extraordinary exploration of those questions a profound and personal meditation on the human hunger for art and a dazzling synthesis of the whole range of inquiry into its significance esteemed thinker ben ami scharfstein's encyclopedic erudition is here brought to bear on the full breadth of the world of art he draws on neuroscience and psychology to understand the way we both perceive and conceive of art including its resistance to verbal exposition through examples of work by indian chinese european african and australian artists art without borders probes the distinction between accepting a tradition and defying it through innovation which leads to a consideration of the notion of artistic genius continuing in this comparative vein scharfstein examines the mutual influence of european and non european artists then through a comprehensive evaluation of the world's major art cultures he shows how all of these individual traditions are gradually but haltingly conjoining into a single current of universal art finally he concludes by looking at the ways empathy and intuition can allow members of one culture to appreciate the art of another lucid learned and incomparably rich in thought and detail art without borders is a monumental accomplishment on par with the artistic achievements scharfstein writes about so lovingly in its pages out of bounds focuses on the crucial role that conceptions of iconic colonial indian spaces jungles cantonments cities hill stations bazaars clubs played in the literary and social production of british india author alan johnson illuminates the geographical rhetorical and ideological underpinnings of such depictions and from this argues that these spaces operated as powerful motifs in the acculturation of anglo india he shows that the bicultural intrinsically ambivalent outlook of anglo indian writers is acutely sensitive to spatial motifs that insofar as these condition the idea of home and homelessness alternately support and subvert conventional colonial perspectives colonial spatial motifs not only informed european representations of india but also shaped important aesthetic notions of the period such as the sublime this book also explains how and why europeans rhetorical and visual depictions of the indian subcontinent whether ostensibly administrative scientific or aesthetic constituted a primary means of memorializing empire creating an idiom that postcolonial india continues to use in certain ways consequently johnson examines specific motifs of anglo indian cultural remembrance such as the hunting memoir hill station life and the mutiny all of which facilitated the mythic iconography of the raj he bases his work on the premise that spatiality the physical as well as social conceptualization of space is a vital component of the mythos of colonial life and that the study of spatiality is too often a subset of a focus on temporality johnson reads canonical and lesser known fiction memoirs and travelogues alongside colonial archival documents to identify shared spatial motifs and idioms that were common to the period although he discusses colonial works he focuses primarily on the writings of anglo indians such as rudyard kipling john masters jim corbett and flora annie steel to demonstrate how conventions of spatial identity were rhetorically maintained and continually compromised all of these considerations amplify this book s focus on the porosity of boundaries in literatures of the colony and of the nation out of bounds will be of interest to not only postcolonial literary scholars but also scholars and students in interdisciplinary nineteenth century studies south asian cultural history cultural anthropology women s studies and sociology belonging across the bay of bengal discusses themes connecting the regions bordering the bay of bengal mainly covering the period from the mid 19th through the mid 20th centuries a crucial period of transition from colonialism to independence focusing on the notion of belonging the chapters in this collection highlight themes of ethnicity religion culture and the emergence of nationalist politics and state policies as they relate to the movement of peoples in the region while the indian ocean has been of interest to scholars for decades there has been a notable tilt towards historicizing the western half of that space often prioritizing islamic trade as the key connective glue prior to the rise of western power and the later emergence of transnational indian nationalism belonging across the bay of bengal enriches this story by drawing attention to buddhist and migrant connectivities introducing discussions of lanka burma and the straits settlements to establish the historical context of the current refugee crises playing out in these regions this is a timely and innovative volume that offers a fresh approach to indian ocean history further enriching our understanding of the current debates over minority rights and refugee problems in the region it will be of great significance to all students and scholars of indian ocean studies as well as historians of modern south and southeast asia
