trade mark law practitioners agree that ulrich hildebrandt s harmonized trade mark law in europe hugely enhances their work this third edition retitled trade mark law in europe follows the same well known intensely practical time saving format with each provision of current law directive 2015 2436 reproduced in its original english wording and annotated with relevant passages from all relevant decisions of the european court of justice as well as relevant provisions of the community trade mark regulation and the national trade mark acts of all member states implementing the directive the author's expert commentary on each provision expressly marks major changes to previous versions of the directive highlights when case law concerning a previous version remains relevant and translates passages that lack an official english text among the fundamental questions addressed are the following when is it possible to register a geographical indication as a trademark are colours and sounds capable of registration when may the reputation of a mark be invoked to protect it how mundane could a sign be and still claim to be distinctive when can it be said that there has been no genuine use of a trade mark where does the court's function theory influence the trademark law given a topic or keyword appendices assist in the quick finding of any provision of the directive and relevant case law there is no other resource presenting the original wording of ecj case law broken down by specific point of law and directly related on an article by article basis to eu and member state trade mark legislation as a highly organized presentation of key information this is an ideal initial tool that makes any research into european trade mark law fast and easy whether for academic purposes or actual legal practice lawyers in house counsel judges and academics will all welcome this new edition this book comes at a time when the egyptian nation is facing deep divisions about the notion and definition of revolution the articles here aim to look at the 2011 egyptian revolution and the central role of women within it from a critical perspective our objective is not to glorify the revolution or inflate the role of egyptian women within its parameters but to analyse and critique both the achievements and setbacks of this revolution and the contributions of various strata of women to the revolutionary process which is still unfolding women's participation is part of a broader picture and needs to be considered as an essential element of the ongoing struggle for freedom and social justice not in isolation of it the reader will soon realise that the authors in this book perhaps agree on one profound aspect of the 2011 revolution the struggle is ongoing and the revolutionary process is still being shaped and recreated the story of the egyptian revolution still resists any kind of closure despite the ascendance of the military regime once again to power the years to come will no doubt witness an expansion of the political and cultural archive of the egyptian and arab uprisings accompanied by much academic work on their impact and significance women's roles and contributions need to occupy a central position in these academic analyses this book was originally published as a special issue of the journal for cultural research this book investigates economic political and cultural conditions that have led to transnational flows of culture in asia coverage also looks at the consequences of an increasingly interconnected asian regional culture as well as policy makers and cultural industries response to it the book features essays written by researchers from different countries in asia and beyond with diverse disciplinary backgrounds the volume also contains engaging examples and cases with comparative perspectives the contributors provide readers with grounded analysis in the organizational and economic logics of asian creative industries national cultural policies that promote or hinder cultural flows and the media convergence and online consumers surging demand for asianized cultural products such insights are of crucial importance for a better understanding of the dynamics of transnational cultural flows in contemporary asia in addition the essays aim to de westernize the study of cultural and creative industries which draws predominantly on cases in the united states and europe the contributors focus instead on regional dynamics of the development of these industries the popularity of j pop and k pop in east and southeast asia and beyond is now well known but less is known about how this happened this volume offers readers theoretical tools that will help them to make better sense of those exciting phenomena and other rising cultural flows within asia and their relevance to the global cultural economy over the past decade digital technologies have profoundly reshaped the chinese cultural landscape with a focus on the creative agency of new media and online communities this volume examines this development through the notion of the sinocybersphere the networked spaces across the globe that not only operate on the chinese script but also imaginatively negotiate the meanings of chinese culture in the digital age instead of asking what makes the internet or new media chinese the chapters situate contemporary entanglements of cultural and digital practices within specific historical social and discursive contexts covering topics as diverse as live streaming ai poetry online literature poetry memes cyberpunk fiction virtual art exhibitions cooking videos censorship and viral translations the collection as a whole not only engages with a wide range of chinese new media phenomena but also demonstrates their relevance to our understanding of contemporary digital culture this book challenges the correspondence theory of judicial fact construction that legal rules resemble and subsume facts out there and instead provides an account of judicial fact construction through legally produced times or adjudicative temporalities that structure legal subject and event formation in legal judgement drawing on bergsonian and gadamerian theories of time this book details how certain adjudicative temporalities can produce fully willed and autonomous subjects through time framed legal events in effect the paradigmatic liberal legal subject or how alternative adjudicative temporalities may structure legal subjects that are situated and constituted by social structures the consequences of this novel account of legal judgement are fourfold the first is that judicial fact construction is not exclusively determined by the legal rule s but by adjudication s production of temporalities the second is that the selection between different adjudicative temporalities is generally indeterminate though influenced by wider social structures as will be argued social structures framed as a particular type of past produced by certain adjudicative temporalities may either be incorporated in the rendering of the legal event or elided the third is that with the book s focus on criminal law different deployments of adjudicative temporalities effect responsibility ascription finally it is argued that the demystification of time as that which structures event and subject formation reveals another way in which to uncover the politics of legal judgement and the potential for its transformative potential through either its inclusion or its elision of social structures in adjudication s determination of facts this book will be of interest to students and scholars in the field of legal judgement legal theory and jurisprudence it is clear by now that the label arab spring has proven too simplistic to describe the uprisings that upended the political order of the arab world in late 2010 brutal crackdowns and civil conflict in syria libya and yemen dashed the hopes that peaceful democratic revolutions would sweep the region in other countries the departure of authoritarian leaders led to many false starts without producing democratic conclusions societies that had appeared united in opposition suddenly seemed fractious youth were once again banished to the political margins reconstructing the middle east examines the changes that happened within the region from 2010 and the long term challenges and opportunities they present featuring the work of authors with a diversity of perspectives most of whom hail from the region it addresses key issues of political economic and societal changes the role of young people and of the international community in addition the book deals with the questions of both political and economic reform and the intertwined nature of the two political reform that allows greater participation will fail to quell frustration if arabs continue to feel that their job prospects are bleak similarly arabs will not accept economic reform that restores growth but continues to fence off the political sphere this book offers a unique perspective on the uprisings by focusing on specific issue areas where change is needed and offering a roadmap for the long road towards state building and new social contracts based on political inclusion respect for pluralism and sustained economic growth as such it will be a valuable resource for students and scholars of middle east politics as well as those with an interest in the arab spring
