despite widespread skepticism on the matter a significant number of people today have stories of religious experience moments of inexplicable terror or rapturous joy visions near death experiences of the afterlife encounters with angels heavenly voices and premonitions how should rationally minded people respond what would your reaction be if someone told you that one night while sitting alone she saw through the window a brilliant light descend from the sky until it was so large that it filled the room and that it radiated a feeling of pure love and what would you say if a friend confided that one night he woke up and could not move felt he was being suffocated and sensed an evil spirit in the room by default in the secular age we are skeptical about anything mysterious or supernatural more likely than not most people would respond to the stories above with embarrassment and concern about the person's grasp of reality or they would attempt to explain them away through rational or scientific means but the truth is that religious experiences like these are not as uncommon as they seem although talking about such experiences often is this is the case even in a faith tradition such as christianity despite the bible's numerous accounts of miraculous and mysterious happenings in encountering mystery noted biblical scholar dale allison makes the argument that stories of religious experience are meaningful and not to be marginalized and that we have a moral prerogative to lovingly engage with such stories regardless of whether we have had similar experiences through a close look at phenomena such as moments of inexplicable terror or rapturous joy visions near death experiences of the afterlife encounters with angels heavenly voices and premonitions allison shows how ordinary practices of faith need not be at odds with individual religious experiences above all he enjoins us to be honest about the persistence of religious experience in a secular age and to make space for those who encounter mystery in their lives

what forms can a religiously informed ethical muslim life take this book presents two important accounts of ideal muslim subjectivity one by 9th century moral pedagogue al harith al muhasibi d 857 and the other by 20th century kurdish quran scholar said nursi d 1960 it reconstructs muhasibi s and nursi s accounts of ideal muslim consciousness and analyzes the discursive practices implicated in its formation and expression the book discusses the range of psychic states and ethical relations that muhasibi and nursi consider critical for living an authentically muslim life it highlights the importance of discursive practices in muslim religious and moral self production the author draws on foucault s insights about ethics and practices of self care to examine familiar muslim discourses in ways that enrich contemporary conversations about identity individuality community authority moral agency and virtue in the fields of religious studies islamic studies and muslim ethics the book deepens our understanding of the fluidity and fragility of both the more familiar obligation centered ethics in islamic thought and the less familiar belief centered modes of religio moral being produced specifically to answer qca concerns over attainment and assessment in re at key stage 3 this series balances learning about religions with learning from religions it comprises differentiated student books teacher s resource packs and cd roms on the six major world faiths a life long exploration of the mysterious world of afterlife research has led to this book the notion of a world beyond this one is firmly rooted into our popular culture as countless strange phenomena in life point us toward this direction from hauntings to near death experiences and many more encounters with the beyond by venturing all the way through this rabbit hole cyrus kirkpatrick has come out from the other end still with his marbles intact and with the intention of finally putting all the pieces together to describe the reality behind what appears to be a multi planar universe that we all exist as part of a topic that must be ultimately rooted in science and not the new age aisle understanding life after death is hopefully an attempt to push the subject in the right direction
