the affects of pedagogy in literary studies considers the ways in which teachers and students are affected by our encounters with literature and other cultural texts in the higher education classroom the essays consider the range of emotions and affects elicited by teaching settings and practices those moments when we in the university are caught off guard and made uncomfortable or experience joy anger boredom and surprise featuring writing by teachers at different stages in their career institutions and national or cultural settings the book is an innovative and necessary addition to both the study of affect theories of learning and teaching and the fields of literary and cultural studies this collection explores how anthologizers and editors of edgar allan poe play an integral role in shaping our conceptions of poe as the author we have come to recognize revere and critique today in the spheres of literature and popular culture poe wields more global influence than any other u s author this influence however cannot be attributed solely to the quality of poe s texts or to his compellingly tragic biography rather his continued prominence as a writer owes much to the ways that poe has been interpreted portrayed and packaged by an extensive group of mediators ranging from anthologizers editors translators and fellow writers to literary critics filmmakers musicians and illustrators in this volume the work of presenting poe s texts for public consumption becomes a fascinating object of study in its own right one that highlights the powerful and often overlooked influence of those who have edited anthologized translated and adapted the author s writing over the past 170 years adaptation in young adult novels argues that adapting classic and canonical literature and historical places engages young adult readers with their cultural past and encourages them to see how that past can be rewritten the textual afterlives of classic texts raise questions for new readers what can be changed what benefits from change how can you too be agents of change the contributors to this volume draw on a wide range of contemporary novels from Rick Riordan's Percy Jackson series and Megan Shepherd's Madman's Daughter trilogy to Jesmyn Ward's Salvage the Bones adapted from mythology, fairy tales, historical places, and the literary classics of Shakespeare, Charles Dickens, Jane Austen, and F. Scott Fitzgerald among others unpacking the new perspectives and critiques of gender, sexuality, and the cultural values of adolescents inherent to each adaptation. The essays in this volume make the case that literary adaptations are just as valuable as original works and demonstrate how the texts studied empower young readers to become more culturally, historically, and socially aware through the lens of literary diversity.

Death is not only the final moment of life; it also casts a huge shadow on human society. At large, people throughout time have had to cope with death as an existential experience, and this also, of course, in the premodern world. The contributors to the present volume examine the material and spiritual conditions of the culture of death, studying specific buildings and spaces, literary works, and art objects, theatrical performances, and medical tracts from the early Middle Ages to the late eighteenth century. Death has always evoked fear, terror, and awe; it has puzzled and troubled people, forcing theologians and philosophers to respond and provide answers for questions that seem to evade real explanations. The more we learn about the culture of death, the more we can comprehend the culture of life, as this volume demonstrates. The approaches to death varied widely also in the Middle Ages and the early modern age. This volume hence adds a significant number of new facets to the critical examination of this ever-present phenomenon of death, exploring poetic responses to the Black Death, types of execution of a female murderess, death as the springboard for major political changes, and death reflected in morality plays and art.

A biographical/bibliographical guide to the writers who have received the Nobel Prize in Literature provides entries for each Nobel Prize laureate. Entries also include the Nobel Prize in Literature presentation speech for the corresponding year and the banquet speech given by the Nobel Prize laureate.

Sometimes it feels you are hitting the wall. Reality differs from dreams. Someone has broken your heart. People seem indifferent. Suffering challenges the very idea of a loving God. You construct a protective wall, imaginary or real, hoping it will keep out the world that seems so cruel. Depicting the many symbolic walls we build to separate ourselves from others, The Wall Beyond shows that in the end, love sustains us beyond suffering, beyond beliefs.
