Val Plumwood was an eminent environmental philosopher and activist who was prominent in the development of radical ecophilosophy from the early 1970s until her death in 2008. Her book Feminism and the Mastery of Nature (1992) has become a classic. In 1985 she was attacked by a crocodile while kayaking alone in the Kakadu National Park in the Northern Territory. She was death rolled three times before being released from the crocodile's jaws. She crawled for hours through swamp with appalling injuries before being rescued. The experience made her well placed to write about cultural responses to death and predation. The first section of The Eye of the Crocodile consists of chapters intended for a book on crocodiles that remained unfinished at the time of Val's death. The remaining chapters are previously published papers brought together to form an overview of Val's ideas on death, predation and nature.

A retelling of one of the Indian fables relating to the former births of Buddha in which as a monkey he manages to outwit the crocodile who decides to capture him.

About the book: Karthik loves big, dull coloured birds of prey and can't contain his excitement at the thought of receiving a kite for his birthday. The hunt for Ma's glasses leads to a chance encounter with a big monkey and a volley of eggs thrown at her. Animals and humans of all shapes and sizes gather together on the pages of this delightful anthology of stories by bestselling children's author Khyrunnisa. A crocodile who ate butter chicken for breakfast and other stories is a charming collection of stories of animals and people, their exciting lives and funny antics. Humorous and at times touching, this collection of bite-sized short stories is perfect for all readers including animal lovers.
