dominant approaches to the transformation of europe ignore contemporary social theory interpretations of the nature and dynamics of social change here delanty and rumford argue that we need a theory of society in order to understand europeanization this book advances the case that europeanization should be theorized in terms of globalization major social transformations that are not exclusively spear headed by the eu the wider context of the transformation of modernity this fascinating book broadens the terms of the debate on europeanization conventionally limited to the supersession of the nation state by a supra national authority and the changes within member states consequent upon eu membership demonstrating the relevance of social theory to contemporary issues and with a focus on european transformation rather than simplistic notions of europe building this truly multidisciplinary volume will appeal to readers from a range of social science disciplines including sociology geography political science and european studies

trenz introduces a sociological perspective on european integration by looking at different accounts of europeanization as society building he observes how europeanization unfolds in ongoing practices and discourses through which social relations among the europeans are redefined and re embedded the chapters describe how the project of european integration has been powerfully launched in postwar europe as a normative venture that comprises polity and society building how this project became ingrained in every day life histories and experiences of the europeans how this project became contested and confronted resistances and ultimately how it went through its most severe crisis a sociology of european integration is thus outlined along four main themes or narratives first the elite processes of identity construction and the framework of norms and ideas that carries such a construction together with notions of european identity eu citizenship etc second the socialization of european citizens processes of banal europeanism and social transnationalism through everyday cross border exchanges third the mobilization of resistance and euroskepticism as a fundamental and collectively mobilized opposition to processes of europeanization and fourth the political sociology of crisis linked not only to financial turmoil but also more fundamentally to a legitimation crisis that affects europe and the democratic nation state europe and world society offers a distinctive critical approach to understanding european transformations exploring both the progress and limitations of integration on various key policy areas such as agricultural policy education reform migration and external relations as well as the relationship between european regionalism and globalization due to its innovative theoretical framework based on macro perspectives including world polity theory developed by stanford sociologist john w meyer this collection contributes to both the recent sociological turn in european studies and to the constructivist critiques of rational choice accounts of modern europe at a time when the european integration project has been severely challenged by multiple economic political and social crises this book offers a timely global perspective that sheds light on the dynamism and multiplicity of the actors discourses and processes which underlie contemporary europe the book s distinctive global approach allows it to move the debate beyond state and eu centrism and establish the missing link between europe and its global context this book was published as a special issue of the journal of contemporary european studies this book brings together a classic collection of andrew sherratt s work on the economic foundations of prehistoric europe which have put forward important new ideas about the development of farming pastoralism early technology and trade in a series of contributions that have included wide ranging syntheses and detailed local studies he discusses their implications for the understanding of settlement patterns social structures material culture and less tangible aspects of prehistoric life such as the spread of languages and the use of narcotics the deep impact of sixteenth century religion on european society can still be felt in our own time in this profound but lively study the movements inspired by luther zwingli and calvin are described with the mastery which the author s previous works in the field especially the eighth reformation have led us to expect other important influences such as the radicals receive equally stimulating treatment and the numerous illustrations from contemporary sources will help to create a vivid picture of the reformation as a whole against its social political and intellectual background back cover what makes people identify with europe to answer this question this book analyzes the development and determinants of a common european identity among eu citizens from the maastricht treaty in 1992 to the recent financial and economic crisis the author examines citizens identification with europe for all eu member states and systematically explores the theoretical and empirical implications of two turning points in the recent history of eu integration namely the eu s enlargement to central and eastern europe in 2004 2007 and the financial and economic crisis that started in 2008 the book integrates theoretical approaches to european identity in sociology social psychology and eu public opinion research in a comprehensive model for explaining individual identification with europe the empirical analysis employs a multilevel framework to systematically assess the influence of individual characteristics and the political economic and social context on citizens feelings of identity the long analysis period spanning from 1992 to the present allows inferences to be drawn about the long term developments in the sources of european identification as well as the immediate impact of eu enlargement and the crisis on the determinants of european identification in recent years the peasant household has become a central focal point of social history this is true not only because the peasant represents the major element of european society through the nineteenth century but also because many of the main issues in modern historical debate can be studied within the sphere of the peasant family this book deals with the european peasant family during the period of transformation from agrarian to industrial society the time called by some the period of protoindustrialization the essays in this volume explore some of the major issues concerning the influence of the economy society and institutions on the peasant household and conversely the influence of the peasant household on the outside world themes dealt with include the ways in which the physical environment and the economy may make for very different family structures and even affect intra family relationships the effects of inheritance marriage and kinship strategies as well as social pressure on peasant family structure and demography the debate about changing gender roles and status the debate over the manner and effects of class formation questions of social and political agency the nature of gender and parent child relations the validity of protoindustrial theory and the role of peasants in initiating industrialization as consumers producers and as a labor force in examining these themes the essays provide both case studies and innovative analysis by preeminent international scholars in the fields of family and women s history economic history and demography mobilising politics and society offers a timely analysis of the european union convention s impact on the domestic political systems and civil society in southern europe it provides country chapters on portugal spain italy greece malta cyprus and turkey all chapters follow a common scientific template in order to offer material for genuine cross country comparison in addition the volume contains horizontal chapters on three important issues the mobilisation of intellectuals sub national politics and the participation of women the editors compare results of the country chapters in their conclusions the book contains documentation on the eu convention and south european participants this volume was previously published as a special issue of the journal south european society and politics europe has been going through its most serious crisis of values since the fall of communism in public discourse economic and social pressures have overshadowed the other dimensions of the crisis including societal values however the crisis of values would appear to be more than simply an effect of the recession europeans have lost trust in democratic institutions at all levels european national and local rising xenophobia and discrimination against minorities undermine the vitality of the european model of tolerance europe is plagued by endemic corruption which costs it more than 100 billion annually triggering political instability some believe that once europe is back on the path of growth the crisis of values will disappear and that there will be a resurgence of faith in european integration but in the long term growth in western societies may be impaired by serious headwinds resulting from demographic trends and rising inequalities and europe may become the first post growth society european societies are already changing their traditional characteristics as a result of exposure to the effects of two global mega trends the empowerment of the individual and cosmopolitisation can the european project be of relevance when addressing these challenges what role in this process can be played by the council of europe which is the embodiment of the idea that europe is bigger than the european union and the european agenda is richer than the economy and politics
