the award winning revisioning american history series continues with this groundbreaking new history of black women in the united states ibram x kendi the perfect companion to an indigenous people s history of the united states and an african american and latinx history of the united states an empowering and intersectional history that centers the stories of african american women across 400 years showing how they are and have always been instrumental in shaping our country in centering black women s stories two award winning historians seek both to empower african american women and to show their allies that black women s unique ability to make their own communities while combatting centuries of oppression is an essential component in our continued resistance to systemic racism and sexism daina ramey berry and kali nicole gross offer an examination and celebration of black womanhood beginning with the first african women who arrived in what became the united states to african american women of today a black women s history of the united states reaches far beyond a single narrative to showcase black women s lives in all their fraught complexities berry and gross prioritize many voices enslaved women freedwomen religious leaders artists queer women activists and women who lived outside the law the result is a starting point for exploring black women s history and a testament to the beauty richness rhythm tragedy heartbreak rage and enduring love that abounds in the spirit of black women in communities throughout the nation this stimulating volume challenges the tendency to represent african american women s experiences as a monolithic whole the interdisciplinary approach organized around the theme of activism enables an unusual and inventive selection of topics to be presented the history culture sociology and psychology of black women are richly represented in this book brittany c slatton uses innovative internet research methods to reveal contemporary prejudices about relationship partners in doing so she thoroughly refutes the popular ideology of a post racial america slatton examines the deep frame of white men found in opinions and emotional reactions to black women and their body types personalities behaviours and styles of speech their internet responses to questionnaires shows how they treat as common sense radicalised gendered and classed versions of black women mythologizing black women argues that the internet acts as a backstage setting allowing white men to anonymously express raw feelings about race and sexuality without the fear of reprimand lessons and affirmations for my sisters all my nieces and young black ladies out there being a black woman can be the most exciting experience as well as a rather sombre one no matter where you are from or where you grew up or how you were raised you cannot seem to escape the black woman experience the dissection of black womanhood is universal we are known to be very resilient and very strong but this is such a dangerous perception as it causes the people around us to believe that we can handle anything tolerate any abuse lower our standards tolerate pain take care of everyone never tire and therefore we accept mediocrity this journal has been created just for that having grown up in a very strict african household with no guidance to womanhood and a confused sense of femininity i felt that with everything that i have learned i would like to share this experience in these affirmations that can be used daily with every black woman i know now i might not have all the answers and every black woman might not be able to relate to everything that i say but for those who needed that soft whisper of guidance and support this is for you treat this journal as a dos and don ts of being the best version of a black woman you can be african american women respectively called black women are complex lovely human beings that demand respect with every step they take in life i was looking over pictures in my family s photo album and the transformation of black women from decade to decade amazes me tremendously because in the midst of their change they improved their lives through education hard work and strong values today there are numerous of issues that make black women cry the loss of children break down in marriages cheating or economic struggles black women cry because sometime love or society impel them to make choices that depreciate their self worth health and parental skills which is consequential to the development and success of all black people black women must continue to cry because if black women stop crying and let anger force their hand love would become recalcitrant to sensitive touches children would become motherless and the streets would have new members on the edge ready to destroy the soul of america and black men so cry black women let your tears soak new meaning to the soil of this life which will grow new flowers that will enlighten minds so love and not violence or disrespect would rule the ground that produce loving black families using examples from her own life the author urges black women to look critically at themselves and society to recognize that they are not victims but a powerful community and to raise their collective voices jacket
