a collection of short stories by a profoundly gifted writer who can deftly immerse the reader in a rich sensory experience of bygone days one moment the reader has goosebumps the next moment her heart is inspired to the heights of human inspiration originally published as part of short friday at the death of her father yentl cuts her hair dresses as a young man and sets out to study at a yeshiva recognizing that yentyl seems to have the soul and disposition of a man her father studies the torah and other holy books with her when he dies yentyl feels that she no longer has a reason to remain in the village and so late one night she cuts off her hair dresses as a young man and sets out to find a yeshiva where she can continue her studies and live secretly as a man on a typical weekday men of the beverly la brea orthodox community wake up early beginning their day with talmud reading and prayer at 5 45am before joining los angeles traffic those who work jewish jobs teachers kosher supervisors or rabbis will stay enmeshed in the orthodox world throughout the workday but even for the majority of men who spend their days in the world of gentiles religious life constantly reasserts itself neighborhood fixtures like jewish schools and synagogues are always after more involvement evening classes and prayers pull them in the streets themselves seem to remind them of who they are and so the week goes culminating as the sabbatical observances on friday afternoon stretch into saturday evening life in this community as iddo tavory describes it is palpably thick with the twin pulls of observance and sociality in summoned tavory takes readers to the heart of the exhilarating at times exhausting life of the beverly la brea orthodox community just blocks from west hollywood s nightlife the orthodox community thrives next to the impure sights sounds and smells they encounter every day but to sustain this life as tavory shows is not simply a moral decision they make to be orthodox is to be constantly called into being people are reminded of who they are as they are called upon by organizations prayer quorums the nods of strangers whiffs of unkosher food floating through the street or the rarer anti semitic remarks again and again they find themselves summoned both into social life and into their identity as orthodox jews at the close of tavory s fascinating ethnography we come away with a better understanding of the dynamics of social worlds identity interaction and self not only in beverly la brea but in society at large tony kushner s award winning epic play angels in america was remarkable not only for its sensitive engagement of jewish american and gay culture but also for bringing these themes to a mainstream audience while the play represented a watershed in american theater and culture it belies a hundred years of previous attention to queer jewish identity in twentieth century american literature drama and film in the passing game warren hoffman sheds light on this long history taking up both yiddish and english narratives that explore the tensions among jewish identity queer sexuality performance and american citizenship with fresh insight hoffman examines the 1907 yiddish play god of vengeance by sholem asch the cross dressing films of yiddish actress molly picon and several short stories by isaac bashevis singer he also analyzes the english language novels the rise of david levinsky abraham cahan wasteland jo sinclair and portnoy s complaint phillip roth hoffman highlights the ways in which the characters in these canonical texts attempt to pass as white straight and american in the early and mid twentieth century this pioneering work is a welcome contribution to the study of jewish american literature and culture tells the story of an ashkenazi jewish girl in poland who decides to dress and live like a boy so that she can receive an education in talmudic law after her father dies laughter after will appeal to a number of audiences from students and scholars of jewish and holocaust studies to academics and general readers with an interest in media and performance studies joseph rolnik is widely considered one of the most prominent of the new york yiddish poets associated with di yunge an avant garde literary group that formed in the early twentieth century in his moving and evocative memoir rolnik recalls his childhood growing up in a small town in belarus and his exhilarating yet arduous experiences as an impoverished yiddish poet living in new york working in garment factories by day and writing poetry by night he became one of the most published and influential writers of the yiddish literary scene unfolding in a series of brief sketches poems and vignettes rather than consistent narrative rolnik s memoir is imbued with the poet s rich sensuous language which vividly describes the sounds and images of his life marcus s elegant translation along with his introduction situating rolnik s poetry in its literary historical context gives readers a fascinating account of this under appreciated literary treasure in this powerful novel the acclaimed author of the salt point portrays a coming of age overshadowed by an ominous infatuation with a dangerous man owen kentucky just isn t big enough for tony blair bored with small town life already a problem drinker at 17 tony is restless ideal prey for carlos reichart a warhol esque filmmaker naomi ragen s first play premiered in 2002 at israel s national theater habimah and had its american premiere at duke university in north carolina in 2005 it is based on a true story a haredi ultra orthodox woman wife of a rabbi mother of twelve leaves her family for unspecified reasons the woman is punished the community s modesty squad prevents her from seeing her children and the friend she is staying with is physically attacked desperate to regain access to her children she determines that the women of her community must stand in judgement hoping that once they hear the truth of why she left they will allow her to be reunited with her children book jacket
